

The History of NSBE National Society of Black Engineers

"If a race has no history, if it has no worthwhile tradition, it becomes a negligible factor in the thought of the world, and it stands in danger of being exterminated."

"Those who have no record of what their forebears have accomplished lose the inspiration which comes from the teaching of biography and history."

Quotes of Carter G. Woodson - Father of Black History

This document is a brief summary of the history of the National Society of Black Engineers. "The History of NSBE" is a living document updated yearly to capture significant highlights of NSBE over the years.

NSBE in General

The mission of NSBE is to increase the number of culturally responsible Black Engineers who excel academically, succeed professionally and positively impact the community.

NSBE was founded at Purdue University in 1975 by six people: John Logan (deceased), Edward Coleman, George Smith, Stanley Kirtley (deceased), Brian Harris, and Anthony Harris. Their nickname is 'The Chicago Six.'

The NSBE Torch symbolizes our everlasting burning desire to achieve success as engineers in our present society. The lightning bolts represent the striking impact that will be felt upon society and industry as a result of the contributions and achievements made by the National Society of Black Engineers.

NSBE Headquarters is located in Alexandria, VA.

NSBE is the largest student-managed organization in the country with hundreds of precollege, college and alumni/technical professional chapters all over the world. These chapters are geographically divided into six regions.

In 1975, the first National Conference was held at Purdue University. 48 students from 32 schools attended the conference. Five important things happened at this conference:

- The National Symbol was chosen
- A rough draft of the National Constitution was written
- The organization was divided into six geographic regions
- The first National Chairperson was elected, John Cason
- The name for the group was selected, "The National Society of Black Engineers"

In 1976, NSBE was incorporated as a nonprofit organization in the State of Texas. NSBE also became recognized as a tax-exempt organization under Section 501 (c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

NSBE offers academic excellence programs, scholarships, leadership training, professional development and access to career opportunities for thousands of members annually. With over 2000 elected leadership positions, 12 regional conferences and an annual convention, NSBE provides opportunities for success that remain unmatched by any other organization. NSBE also publishes three national magazines; the NSBE Magazine, the Career Engineer and the NSBE Bridge.
